

A story from my world

In our Lagos book, Adaeze brings back her uncle's movie light. His party scene can begin. Now tell a little story from your own day.

Draw three pictures. Add an arrow to something you want a friend to notice first.

1 · At the beginning...

2 · Then something happens...

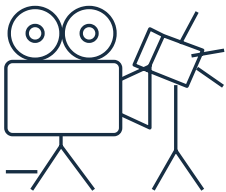

3 · And at the end...

Show it together.

Point, speak, make sounds, or act out the pictures. A friend can give your story a voice.

Look again.

Ask, "What did you see first?" Keep your picture or change it. Show your story again.

Color the movie light.

Where could its light go in your story? Draw a beam toward the thing you want us to notice.

Grown-up: a child may draw, dictate, point, or use three still poses. A safe battery torch is optional. Keep light away from eyes. Ask permission before sharing another person's story. No filming or upload is needed.
